Can Do.

Recycling gives new life to old materials. For example, the aluminum can you recycle today could be back on the shelf as a new can in 60 days. By doing your part, you can help save raw materials which also saves time, energy and expense.

With online check-in, you can choose a convenient time for treatment and wait at home.

The typical urgent care experience can involve long waits in a crowded waiting room. That's not how you want to spend your time. We get it. That's why we offer InQuicker, a free, online check-in service for treatment of minor injuries and illnesses at our five urgent care or quick care centers.

To use InQuicker, simply log onto LakeHealth.org, click on the "Urgent Care Check In" box, and choose the time and facility where you'd like to be treated. Then, you can rest at home or go about your day until it's time to be seen.

Marc Malinowski learned about InQuicker while up late one night with his 11-year-old son, Bobby, who suffered from seasonal allergies. "I was looking online to find out the urgent care hours, and it gave me the option to go ahead and reserve a time."

After filling out a quick form, Marc had an approximate treatment time the following morning at the Willowick Campus Urgent Care Center.

"We respect our patients' time, and InQuicker lets us deliver care in a way that is more convenient and less stressful for our patients," explains Joe Popely, director of Lake Health Occupational Services and Ambulatory Centers. "The goal is to minimize wait time and maximize time patients spend with our doctors and nurses."

Marc was impressed with the service. Bobby was given medication to reduce his allergy symptoms, and the family was able to get on with their day. "It was relatively quick and easy. I will definitely sign up before going to the urgent care the next time."

You should know:

Estimated treatment times are based on real-time facility conditions. If your projected treatment time is delayed, InQuicker will notify you by email and phone.

Lake Health offers InQuicker for the following facilities:

Chardon Campus Urgent Care Center
Tyler Blvd. Urgent Care Center
Willowick Campus Urgent Care Center
Madison Campus Quick Care Center
Painesville Quick Care Center

Two of the Safest Hospitals in America: TriPoint and West Medical Centers!

TriPoint Medical Center and West Medical Center were awarded an "A" grade in the Fall 2015 and Spring 2016 Hospital Safety Score reports released by independent hospital watchdog The Leapfrog Group. The reports rate how well hospitals across the nation protect patients from preventable medical errors, injuries, accidents and infections. Check the safety scores of the hospitals in your area at HospitalSafetyScore.org and use that information to choose a health care provider.
