OHIO'S MASTER SAND SCULPTING COMPETITION

SUZANNE ALTAMARE, GREG GRADY, CARL JARA,
JON WOODWORTH & JEFF STRONG

Take a MOMENT TO MEET OUR MASTER SAND SCULPTORS!

SUZANNE ALTAMARE

Suzanne Altamare began sculpting sand for a living in 1982 as Marc Altamare's sand slave and apprentice. She loves carving compaction but is best known for soft sand sculptures. She lives in Daytona Beach, Florida where her work can be seen beach side at Ocean Walk Shoppes in the winter.

Over the last decade she has been working with organizers on many sand sculpting contests usually serving as a coordinator and sculptor liaison.

Favorite things are carving flowing or technical sculptures from octopi to antique motorcycles. Favorite things are gardening, boogie boarding, cats, and creating permanent art work in clay, styrofoam, plaster, paint, cement and photographs. Favorite sand mottos: "Change your mind, not the sand" and "Don't fight it, hide it" Favorite sand contest: Texas Sand Fest!

Greg J. Grady

The apple doesn't fall far from the tree. Greg is a self-taught artist and a 2nd generation sand sculptor who is a veteran of the Marine Corp. An ephemeral artist; he works with sand, snow, ice, wood and pumpkins. Greg developed his love for sand sculpture as a child creating sculptures with his father. Greg traveled every chance he got with his father to professional sand sculpture events for the opportunity to play in some of the biggest and best sand boxes any kid could imagine. Today, Greg's childhood dreams are a reality with a career creating sand sculptures at events around the globe. His travels have taken him throughout the U.S, Canada, Europe, Japan, Kuwait, Virgin Islands and so on.

Greg expanded his professional sand sculpture business into organizing contests, exhibitions, promotional events, and team building workshops. He and his father Greg Sr. are currently the driving force behind two renowned events; the Hampton Beach Master Sand Sculpting competition in New Hampshire and the Yarmouth Summer Celebration Kick Off which is the longest sand sculpture trail in the world on Cape Cod Massachusetts.

Greg plans to continue doing what he loves, making art and sharing his creations with people and places all over the world. He is continuously honing his skills so be sure to keep an eye on this artist to wow the crowds both in the art of sand and beyond. ## Carl Jara

You may recognize this guy, Carl Jara. From right here in Greater Cleveland, he's been sculpting sand up and down the Lake Erie shore and all over Ohio for the past twenty three years. You may have seen him at the Children's Museum or Oktoberfest, but he's also been working all over the US and in more than a dozen other countries. He has been seen on the Travel Channel's Sand Blasters and Sand Wars and trending on Yahoo. In fact, his rather illustrious career has earned him dozens of medals at contests worldwide, and he's won a whopping fourteen World Championship medals. When he's not out playing a sand sculpting rock star he's creating furniture in his traditional 19th century wood shop and filling his days at the Cleveland Museum of Natural History where he gets to build all those cool exhibits. You can see all of his work at www.artcleveland.com.

JON WOODWORTH

Jon is a Master sculptor crowned "SandDad" by his 4 children. He is just a kid at heart and as such, loves to play in the sand. His wife, Kristie, joins him when possible. Jon has been sand sculpting since 1991 and began entering Amateur contests in 2000, eventually moving into the Masters division in 2006. Jon keeps busy with commercial projects, fairs and charity events around the US. He enjoys the competition of sand sculpting and is blessed by all the friends he has made through it.

Jon has won various 1st, 2nd, & 3rd place awards in Duo and Solo competitions, Quick Sand, People's choice awards and has appeared on Travel Channel's "Sand Wars". Jon has also been a sculptor on the Warrior's Weekend Sand Sculpture Team since 2009 for our wounded heroes.

Believing the zombie apocalypse is just around the corner, Jon fears that his oldest daughter, Heather, may win her bid to take over the new apocalyptic world and crown herself supreme ruler. She, his first child, much like his first car, may have gotten a few dents during his "father learning curve" and upon becoming the new ruler may force him to eat apple sauce on a daily basis.

Jon says: "It's not just sand, it's Granulized Engineering"

JEFF STRONG

Jeff Strong loves pushing sand to its physical limits while creating shapes with beautiful form. To him, art and physics are equal parts of a beautiful universe. Arches and open spaces are hallmarks of his work, which can be seen at strongsand.com.

As a computer programmer at University of Puget Sound, he enjoys getting away to the sand on vacations. Jeff's early attempts at sand castles finally took off in 2001 when he met Pacific Northwest master sculptors and joined their team for beach competitions.

The increasing role of sand sculpture in his life inspired a piece showing a sculptor being devoured by a sand dragon. "Consuming Pastime", as it was called, became an internet sensation. Since then, his gravity-defying works have continued to receive awards at the highest levels of competition.

Jeff loves traveling to distant beaches to create art in the company of wonderful people in the community of sand sculpture.

Two of the Safest Hospitals in America: TriPoint and West Medical Centers!

TriPoint Medical Center and West Medical Center were awarded an "A" grade in the Fall 2015 and Spring 2016 Hospital Safety Score reports released by independent hospital watchdog The Leapfrog Group. The reports rate how well hospitals across the nation protect patients from preventable medical errors, injuries, accidents and infections. Check the safety scores of the hospitals in your area at HospitalSafetyScore.org and use that information to choose a health care provider.

With online check-in, you can choose a convenient time for treatment and wait at home.

The typical urgent care experience can involve long waits in a crowded waiting room. That's not how you want to spend your time. We get it. That's why we offer InQuicker, a free, online check-in service for treatment of minor injuries and illnesses at our five urgent care or quick care centers.

To use InQuicker, simply log onto LakeHealth.org, click on the "Urgent Care Check In" box, and choose the time and facility where you'd like to be treated. Then, you can rest at home or go about your day until it's time to be seen.

Marc Malinowski learned about InQuicker while up late one night with his 11-year-old son, Bobby, who suffered from seasonal allergies. "I was looking online to find out the urgent care hours, and it gave me the option to go ahead and reserve a time."

After filling out a quick form, Marc had an approximate treatment time the following morning at the Willowick Campus Urgent Care Center.

"We respect our patients' time, and InQuicker lets us deliver care in a way that is more convenient and less stressful for our patients," explains Joe Popely, director of Lake Health Occupational Services and Ambulatory Centers. "The goal is to minimize wait time and maximize time patients spend with our doctors and nurses."

Marc was impressed with the service. Bobby was given medication to reduce his allergy symptoms, and the family was able to get on with their day. "It was relatively quick and easy. I will definitely sign up before going to the urgent care the next time."

You should know:

Estimated treatment times are based on real-time facility conditions. If your projected treatment time is delayed, InQuicker will notify you by email and phone.

Lake Health offers InQuicker for the following facilities:

Chardon Campus Urgent Care Center
Tyler Blvd. Urgent Care Center
Willowick Campus Urgent Care Center
Madison Campus Quick Care Center
Painesville Quick Care Center
