

BECOME A FRIEND OF WILDWOOD

Wildwood Cultural Center and Park, located at 7645 Little Mountain Road, is a hidden gem in the City of Mentor that we would love for you to experience. The center's estate manor house was built by the John G. Oliver family in 1908. The estate is encased in 34 acres, filled with stately trees and beautiful gardens including hiking trails, picnic and wildlife areas. Wildwood works closely with Mentor's Community Arts Commission. The Mentor Community Arts Commission is an advisory committee through the City of Mentor serving the community since 1981. The Arts Commission supports programs, classes and events that emphasize the cultural arts to the community and surrounding areas. Wildwood along with the Arts Commission strives to maintain the cultural arts by Advocating, Educating, and Organizing.

- Advocating-Working closely with the community to emphasize the importance of cultural arts and the positive impact it has on society.

- Organizing-Multiple programs, classes and events in a variety of arts provides the community multiple chances to experience the cultural arts.

We encourage you to show your support in the cultural arts and become a "Friend of Wildwood."
